Specification

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it should be on a clean single sheet of paper and not contain legal phraseology such as means and should not contain a reference to drawing Figure 1. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: on page 1 and following pages, Applicants refer to the claims and the claims should not be referred to in the specification.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yoshida et al (US 4,378,390).

Yoshida et al teach an epoxy or glue source (301), a metering roller (303), which is connected with the glue source, an application roller (304), which may be connected to the glue source, a making roller (305) which is connected to the glue application roller (304), and which transfers glue from this roller (2) to an article whereby independent drive means (see col. 6, lines 50-55) are assigned to the above listed rollers such that inherently the speed of each roller can be adjusted independently of one another.

Art Unit: 1734

Applicants' intended use of the apparatus for a specific article, bottom warps or star seal bottom bags, while considered, has been given no patentable weight.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoshida et al (US 4,378,390) in view of Hayasaka et al (US 5,972,167).

The teachings of Yoshida et al have been mentioned above but Yoshida et al are silent concerning the metering roller being reversibly rotatable. However, it was known in the art, at the time the invention was made, to provide a reversible rotating roll when higher metering or smoothing is desired in a coating arrangement as evidenced by Hayasaka et al (see col. 6, lines 12-14). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a reversible metering roller as taught by Hayasaka et al in the

Art Unit: 1734

Yoshida et al apparatus in order to provide for higher metering or smoothing of the viscous coating material or epoxy before it is applied to the article.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoshida et al (US 4,378,390).

The teachings of Yoshida et al have been mentioned above but Yoshida et al are silent concerning the rollers each having their own power source, however, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide each independent drive their own power source so each operates separately to prevent power overload or failure.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 8 would be allowable.

Claims 6 and 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
